Formal Matters

The cancelled claims are listed as 1-53. This should be 1-52. Correction is required.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 53 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 29, 34 and 35 of U.S. Patent No. 6,685,733. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims of the instant application are merely broader in scope. With the above correction and a T.D. the application is in condition for allowance.

Reasons for Allowance

None of the prior art of record disclose or suggest a method for preventing or reducing the severity of kidney damage comprising in part, the steps of:

providing a heat exchange catheter that has a heat exchanger which is positionable within a blood vessel of the patient and a controller that controls the temperature of the heat exchanger;

positioning the heat exchanger in the inferior or superior vena cava of the patient without entirely preventing the flow of blood around the heat exchanger; and controlling the temperature of the heat exchanger to reduce the temperature of the patient's blood and to cool the patient's kidneys, thereby preventing or reducing the severity of kidney damage resulting from the substance; and administering the substance to the patient.

Gobin et al. and Noda et al. and Dobak fail to disclose or suggest cooling of the kidney to prevent renal damage by a potentially nephrotoxic substance (such as a typical contrast agent used for imaging). Even Ginsburg et al. (6,497,721) who disclose a heat exchange catheter system only specifically provide an example of using the device to heat or cool neural tissue and, although they disclose using a contrast agent for imaging in this example case, and state in general that the device could be use to heat or cool the kidney, there is no disclosure that provides a recognition by the inventors that applying the device to cool the kidneys would be required in order to prevent damage by a nephrotoxic substance such as a contrast agent.

It is known in the art that a typical amount of contrast agent required for imaging could potentially cause damage in some patients, but none of the prior art has recognized that cooling the kidney could specifically prevent damage to the kidney.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
